

Ryedale Woodturners

News Bulletin 41 - 19 October 2025

Hello all

Hands On Day Tuesday 21 October, Broughton

I am looking forward to another of our training days, this time at John Lund's workshop in Broughton. There are 18 people down for the day, with possibly space for 1 late entry to the list if anyone is interested – let me know at info@ryedalewoodturners.org.uk and I will pass you name on to Geoff, who is organising the day. Always an enjoyable and informative day, as well as being a good social gathering. With thanks to John for hosting.

Harrogate Show

The annual woodworking show is coming up soon, on Friday 14 November and Saturday 15 November. Only two days this year, unlike the usual 3 that has been the case ever since I can remember. I was told there was some mix up with bookings for the British Potato Industry booking, but that happens the following weekend, so I can only conclude that the Woodworking event organisers are cutting their booking because of low footfall on Sundays in recent years. They keep putting the price up, and the numbers attending goes down. Any correlation you can see?

For newer members, the Harrogate Show is a must-go pilgrimage for all woodturners: there will be a number of trade stalls, usually with some kind of show deal, and lots of demonstrations by woodturners, woodturning clubs and other wood crafts. It costs £14.50 if you book tickets online, (£13.50 for 60+): these prices are £3 cheaper than if you pay on the day. If you book a ticket online, you don't have to specify which day you intend going. You really should go at least one in your woodturning life. More details at Harrogate Woodworking Show.

Monkey puzzle wood

I picked up some of the monkey puzzle wood from Sleights last week, just the "knuckles" where the branches grow out of the trunk, creating an interesting pattern in the wood. These are available for £2 each – there will be one at the next meeting, with more available if anyone wants to order one in advance. They are freshly felled, so are a bit spiky and a bit sticky (it is very resinous wood). Let me know if you would like one (or more) – info@ryedalewoodturners.org.uk

Gallery

Malton School held the first of 3 annual “Celebration” evenings last week, for which Dan has been making all the trophies over recent weeks. Most of these are about 7” wide by 10” tall, mainly beech, with other woods used for ornamentation.
